

Hiroyoshi OHASHI*: New names for two Asiatic legumes

大橋広好*: アジア産マメ科植物の2新学名

During my studies on Himalayan legumes in the 1970's I proposed two new combinations for the names of varieties of Bauhinia scandens (Caesalpinoideae-Cercideae) and Shuteria involucrata (Papilioideae-Phaseoleae). They are B. scandens var. horsfieldii (Miq.) Ohashi and S. involucrata var. glabrata (Wight & Arn.) Ohashi. These two varieties were named on the basis of Bauhinia anguina var. horsfieldii (Miq.) Prain and Shuteria vestita var. glabrata (Wight & Arn.) Baker, respectively. However, both names must be replaced by the autonym due to the article 57.3 of the International Code of Botanical Nomenclature which is added since 1983. According to this article the autonym of B. anguina var. horsfieldii, i.e., var. angula, has priority over the previous variety name, and that of S. vestita var. glabrata, i.e., var. vestita, is treated as having priority over var. glabrata.

The nomenclatural treatments are as follows:

- 1) Bauhinia scandens* L. var. anguina (Roxb.) Ohashi, comb. nov.
Bauhinia anguina Roxb., [Hort. Bengal. 31 (1814), n. n.] Pl. Corom. 3: 82, t. 285 (1819).
